CRIMINOLOGY

We are looking for high-quality, important and innovative international research in this field. Our Criminology list is rapidly-expanding and features boundary-pushing work in formats ranging from monographs and textbooks to trade books for the general reader.

We are committed to working with the most respected international authors to bring new and exciting perspectives on a wide range of subjects. We are particularly interested in scholarship that tackles the global social challenges of our time.

We aim to cover areas within criminology that have some impact on people's everyday lives and deal with topics people can relate to - from ethnographies in marginalised communities to research into the impact of fake clothes.

We are actively seeking new work in:

- Global and transnational crime
- Organised crime
- Victimology
- Global South
- Critical criminology
- Green criminology
- Race and crime
- Social harm
- Youth justice
- Domestic violence

Meet the editor

Rebecca Tomlinson,
Assistant Editor

I have been at Policy Press for six years and am excited to now be involved with Bristol University Press' Criminology list.

I enjoy my work because I get to meet people who are incredibly passionate about what they do and helping them see the culmination of their work in a book is very rewarding. We are lucky to get to publish things that will make a difference to society and lead to positive change.

If you are interested in writing for our Criminology list, please contact me at rebecca.tomlinson@bristol.ac.uk or visit our information for authors page to download our proposal guidelines.
