INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Bristol University Press, and its imprint Policy Press, has a long history of publishing award-winning scholarship with a focus on social issues that reaches beyond academia to government, professionals and the wider public to inform policy and practice. A not-for-profit publisher, we were proud to be named the Independent Publishers Guild Independent Academic and Professional Publisher of the Year in 2016.

With a reputation for publishing on poverty, inequalities and social justice, we are now actively looking to expand our International Development list and welcome proposals from those researching in this field, especially on topics that address global social challenges. Our list is multidisciplinary and includes work by leading figures in the field, including Jo Boyden, Gustavo Esteva, Peter Lloyd-Sherlock, Garth Myers, Tim Shaw, David Simon and Andy Sumner.

Please contact Philippa Grand, Publisher for International Development, at philippa.grand@bristol.ac.uk with your proposal or for further information.

Meet the editor

Philippa Grand,
Publisher

After completing my PhD in History in 2002 I began my career in academic publishing, working for prestigious presses including Manchester University Press, Routledge and Palgrave Macmillan. I have been responsible for commissioning in many subjects across the social sciences.
