Business and Management and Economics and Society

SPRING/SUMMER 2021

Welcome

2021 marks Policy Press' 25th anniversary and 5 years since Bristol University Press' inception.

It is a challenging time to celebrate such milestones, yet in reflecting on our progress we strengthened our determination to support positive social change. Our publishing, culture and practice over 25 years demonstrates our team's values and concerns which I believe are ever-more needed in these difficult times.

Several initiatives show our 'publishing with a purpose' ethos:

- Rapid Responses and COVID-19 Collection are new interventions to influence thinking, policy and practice. Written by leading scholars, policy makers, charity workers and activists, the digital-only Rapid Responses publish in just 6-8 weeks, while the COVID-19 Collection offers cross-disciplinary perspectives on the pandemic.
- Our commitment to sustainable Open Access (OA) through Gold and Green routes is crucial to opening up evidence and analysis to researchers, practitioners and policy makers around the globe. Our Research4Life partnership is also vital, giving free or low-cost access to all our work to low-income countries.
- Equality, diversity and inclusion (EDI) has been fundamental to our ethos for 25 years and our five-year strategy underpins this commitment. Diversity of thought, belief and background of our authors, editors and staff enable us to publish a wide range of voices that challenge accepted norms and thinking.

- As a publisher focused on addressing global social challenges, we were early signatories to the recent UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) Publishers Compact, a collaboration between the United Nations and the International Publishers Association to accelerate progress to achieve the SDGs by 2030.

I hope that you find much of interest in this catalogue and I wish you a safe and productive 2021.

Welcome

Building on the strengths of our award-winning Policy Press imprint, the Business & Management and Economics & Society lists were established in 2017. Our books are published for both scholarly and non-specialist readers, and we are increasingly focused on interdisciplinary work that engages with the global social challenges agenda.

We are expanding our publishing programme and would be delighted to hear from prospective authors of monographs, edited collections, student textbooks and 'trade' books aimed at the general public. In Business & Management we are particularly interested in organizations, work and responsible business. Our Economics & Society list covers all areas of the discipline and extends into aligned disciplines such as sociology, politics and law.

If you would like to discuss ideas for your next book, please contact our senior editor Paul Stevens:

The Reformation of Welfare

The New Faith of the Labour Market

Tom Boland, University College Cork and Ray Griffin, Waterford Institute of Technology

"This immensely creative book provokes insights on the salvation rituals of job-seeking on nearly every page. It stands as an outstanding contribution to the theological genealogy of government and economy."

MITCHELL DEAN, COPENHAGEN BUSINESS SCHOOL

Western culture has 'faith' in the labour market as a test of the worth of each individual. For those who are out of work, welfare is now less of a support than a means of purification and redemption. Continuously reformed by the left and right in politics, the contemporary welfare state attempts to transform the unemployed into active jobseekers, punishing non-compliance.

Drawing on ideas from economic theology, this provocative book uncovers deep-rooted religious concepts and shows how they continue to influence contemporary views of work and unemployment: Jobcentres resemble Purgatory where the unemployed attempt to redeem themselves, Job-seeking is a form of Pilgrimage in hope of salvation, and the economy appears as Providence, whereby trials and tribulations test each individual. The book will be essential reading for those interested in the sociology and anthropology of modern economic life.

Organizations and Activism series

Series Editors: Daniel King, Nottingham Trent University and Martin Parker, University of Bristol

From cooperatives to corporations, Occupy to Facebook, organizations influence our lives. They engage in politics as well as shaping the possible futures of policy making and social change. This groundbreaking new series offers critical examinations of organizations as sites of, or targets for, activism. The first two books in the series are now available with more to come. ### Guerrilla Democracy

Mobile Power and Revolution in the 21st Century

Peter Bloom, University of Essex, Owain Smolović Jones and Jamie Woodcock, The Open University

"Politics has been infected, and it has a serious case of Guerrilla democracy. This wide-ranging new study looks at how activists draw on digital technologies to resist neoliberalism and create alternatives."

ANDRÉ SPICER, CITY, UNIVERSITY OF LONDON

The liberating promise of big data and social media for creating more responsive democracies and workplaces is overshadowed by a nightmare of election meddling, privacy invasion, fake news and an exploitative gig economy.

Yet, while regressive forces spread disinformation and hate, 'guerrilla democrats' continue to foster hope and connection through digital technologies.

This book offers an in-depth analysis of platform-based radical movements, from the online coalitions of voters and activists to the Deliveroo and Uber strikes. Combining cutting-edge theories with empirical research, it makes an invaluable contribution to the emerging literature on the relationship between technology and society.

Anarchist Cybernetics

Control and Communication in Radical Politics

Thomas Swann, Loughborough University

"This pioneering study brings cybernetics to bear on anarchism to interrogate the sustainability of radical democracy. The result is a masterclass in organisation theory and strategy which encompasses contemporary movement and social media analysis."

RUTH KINNA, LOUGHBOROUGH UNIVERSITY

"Swann's work on cybernetics and anarchism couldn't be more relevant at this moment. It will inspire the design of more radical, democratic and self-organised post-COVID-19 societies and political systems."

ANGELA ESPINOSA, UNIVERSITY OF HULL

From Occupy to the Indignados and the Arab Spring, the uprisings that marked the last decade ignited a re-emergence of participatory democracy as a political ideal within organizations.

This pioneering book introduces cybernetic thinking to politics and organizational studies to explore the continuing development of this radical idea. With a focus on communication and how alternative social media platforms present new challenges and opportunities for radical organizing, it sheds new light on the concepts of self-organization, consensus decision making, individual autonomy and collective identity.

Revolutionizing the way in which anarchist activists and theorists think about organizations, this unprecedented investigation makes a major contribution to the larger discussion of direct democracy.

Rethinking Value Chains

Tackling the Challenges of Global Capitalism

Edited by Florence Palpacuer, University of Montpellier and Alistair Smith, Banana Link

"A unique combination of academic and practitioner perspectives on challenging issues in global value chains. It covers key conceptual and campaign topics – of great interest to academic and policy audiences."

STEPHANIE BARRIENTOS, UNIVERSITY OF MANCHESTER

Today, production processes have become fragmented with a range of activities divided among firms and workers across borders.

These global value chains are being strongly promoted by international organizations such as the World Bank and the World Trade Organization, but social and political backlash is mounting in a growing variety of forms.

This original volume brings together academics and activists from Europe to think creatively about the social and environmental imbalances of global production and how to reform the current economic system.

Beyond the Wage

Ordinary Work in Diverse Economies

Edited by William Monteith and Philippa Williams, Queen Mary University of London and Dora-Olivia Vicol, Work Rights Centre

Recent developments in the organization of work and production have facilitated the decline of wage employment in many regions of the world. However, the idea of the wage continues to dominate the political imaginations of governments, researchers and activists.

This edited collection revitalizes debates on the future of work by challenging the idea of wage employment as the global norm. Taking theoretical inspiration from the Global South, the authors compare lived experiences of 'ordinary work' across taken-for-granted conceptual and geographical boundaries. Their contributions open up new possibilities for how work, identity and security might be woven together differently. This is an invaluable resource for academics, students and readers interested in alternative and emerging forms of work around the world.

The Political Economy of Digital Monopolies

Contradictions and Alternatives to Data Commodification

Paško Bilić, Institute for Development and International Relations, Toni Prug, independent researcher and Mislav Žitko, University of Zagreb

"In this thoroughly researched and clearly written book, critical theory confronts the concentration of power in cyber-monopolies to advance our understanding of digital capitalism. The authors skillfully assess proposals for both reform and social transformation."

VINCENT MOSCO, AUTHOR OF THE SMART CITY IN A DIGITAL WORLD

At a time when the practices of technology companies continue to attract fierce criticism, this book asks what it actually means to hold a 'monopoly' in the tech world and how it might affect the way in which an organization operates.

Combining new and traditional Marxian perspectives, the authors offer an in-depth analysis of how these technology giants are produced, financialized and regulated.

As technology firms continue to shape our political and socioeconomic landscape, this book will be an invaluable resource for scholars and students who seek to understand the function of technological monopolies in contemporary capitalism.

The Growing Challenge of Youth Unemployment in Europe and America

A Cross-Cultural Perspective

Radha Jagannathan, Rutgers University

Much of the literature that addresses youth unemployment has been framed within an economic paradigm and much less attention has been focused on the role played by country-specific value orientations in structuring economic activity.

Drawing on extensive fieldwork research and the work of experts in Europe and the United States, this book provides a culturally nuanced analysis of key issues relating to youth unemployment.

Examining the causes and consequences of youth unemployment, it explores ways forward to promote economic self-sufficiency. This pioneering work offers invaluable tailored policy solutions to tackle one of today's most important socioeconomic issues.

Property, Power and Politics

Why We Need to Rethink the World Power System

Jean-Philippe Robé, Sciences Po Law School

"An analysis of the modern world synthesising law, history and politics in a way that no one else has tried before. Practically every page presents some new facts, historical insight or conceptual innovation. Robé is interested in solutions as much as in analysis. This is a real tour de force by one of the most original deep thinkers today."

RONEN PALAN, CITY UNIVERSITY LONDON

"To say that this work is multidisciplinary does not do it justice. It uniquely integrates the dynamics of state sovereignty, corporate globalization, property rights, and public as well as private law, to illuminate the workings of a multidimensional world power system that needs to be understood before it can be democratically governed."

JOHN RUGGIE, HARVARD LAW SCHOOL

"This compelling work's core arguments deeply challenge conventional economics and transform how we understand the global economy and the power of enterprises. It will cause a great deal of trouble, and rightly so."

PHILIP SCRANTON, RUTGERS UNIVERSITY

This revolutionary work rethinks globalization as a power system feeding from, and in competition with, the state system. In illuminating how the concentration of property rights within corporations led to the rejection of democracy as an ineffective system of government and to the rise in inequality, Robé offers a clear pathway to a fairer and more sustainable power system.

Work and Personality Change

What We Do Makes Who We Are

Ying Lena Wang, RMIT University and
Chia-Huei Wu, University of Leeds

"This volume is a must-read for academics and practitioners active in the domains of personality development, coaching and talent acquisition and management."

FILIP DE FRUYT, GHENT UNIVERSITY

Can your job change your personality? Traditionally personality has been considered fixed and stable, but recent thinking indicates that this is not the case. Drawing on extensive research in the field, this book provides an overview on how personality can be changed at work by societal, organisational and job-related factors, while considering how individuals can take an active approach in changing their personality at work.

Financial Inclusion

Critique and Alternatives

Rajiv Prabhakar, The Open University

"This engaging and timely book makes a convincing case for bringing together theoretical and applied perspectives on financial inclusion."

KAREN ROWLSON, UNIVERSITY OF BIRMINGHAM

Supporters promote 'financial inclusion' as a way of helping people navigate decisions about money. However, critics fear these policies promote 'financialisation'. Presenting a nuanced, critical analysis of 'financial inclusion', Rajiv Prabhakar brings together the supportive and critical literatures which have, until now, developed in parallel. Addressing the 'poverty premium', financial capability and housing, this essential dialogue advances crucial debates and proposes alternative paths forward.

Individuals' behaviours at work are known to be shaped by cold, or cognitive-motivational, processes as well as hot, or affect-motivational, processes. To date, employee proactivity research has mainly focused on the 'cold' side. But emotion has been proposed to 'energize' employees' proactivity, especially in interdependent and uncertain work environments. Expert scholars offer new thinking on the process by examining how emotion can drive employees' proactivity in the workplace and how, in turn, that proactivity can shape one's emotional experiences.

Mapping Good Work The Quality of Working Life Across the Occupational Structure

Mark Williams, Queen Mary University of London, Ying Zhou, University of Surrey and Min Zou, University of Reading

"An innovative and highly original book. The authors develop a new approach for understanding job quality in the UK."

ANDY CHARLWOOD, UNIVERSITY OF LEEDS

In this illuminating study of working life, leading experts in the sociology of work draw on decades of large-scale survey data to consider various notions of the quality of work in Britain. Exploring data on hundreds of occupations, it charts why some occupations feel more rewarding than others and sets out fresh policies that might generate greater fulfilment at work.

Working in the Context of Austerity

Challenges and Struggles

Edited by Donna Baines, University of British Columbia and Ian Cunningham, University of Strathclyde

"A judicious combination of thematic pieces and case studies, this book sheds new light on key trends in work and employment, refracted through the wider lens of austerity. Essential reading for anyone with an interest in the contemporary workplace."

PAUL THOMPSON, UNIVERSITY OF STIRLING

"A superb collection analysing what happens when austerity hits. The lived experiences and consequences of privatisation, precariousness and wage suppression are highlighted amid possibilities of resistance and alternatives."

STEPHEN MCBRIDE, MCMASTER UNIVERSITY

Austerity was presented as the antidote to sluggish economies, but it has had far-reaching effects on jobs and employment conditions.

With an international team of editors and authors from Europe, North America and Australia, this illuminating collection goes beyond a sole focus on public sector work and uniquely covers the impact of austerity on work across the private, public and voluntary spheres.

Drawing on a range of perspectives, the book engages with the major debates surrounding austerity and neoliberalism, providing grounded analysis of the everyday experience of work and employment.

Redeeming Leadership

An Anti-Racist Feminist Intervention

Helena Liu, UTS Business School

"... carefully, thoughtfully, evocatively and elegantly illuminates profound problems facing leadership theory and practice and offers powerful strategies for addressing those problems."

MANAGEMENT LEARNING

As leadership theory and practice continue to reinforce imperialist, masculinist and white supremacist power, Helena Liu's thought-provoking new book shows how anti-racist feminism can shake up the order. Through both critical review of theory and enlightening examples from around the world, it sets out a new agenda for a bold reimagining of leadership in all its forms.

The Economic History of Colonialism

Leigh Gardner and Tirthankar Roy, London School of Economics and Political Science

"The literature on colonialism is vast, but much of it is marred by generalization from the particular. Unique in its focus on different 'varieties of colonialism', this is an authoritative source of reference."

MARK CASSON, UNIVERSITY OF READING

"This is a useful antidote for students against the rather superficial work that tends to blame underdevelopment in Asia and Africa simply on the legacies of colonialism."

ANNE BOOTH, SOAS UNIVERSITY OF LONDON

"This wide-ranging overview is an essential text on any undergraduate syllabus concerning colonial economies."

JAMES FENSKE, UNIVERSITY OF WARWICK

With its comparative approach and inclusive coverage of different methods of critical analysis, this pioneering text provides students and scholars with an essential first introduction to the economic history of colonialism. Written by leading researchers in the field, it helps readers to develop informed views of colonialism as a force in shaping the modern world.

This is an authoritative account of the relationship between colonialism and economic development at an important point in time, making an invaluable contribution to several distinct literatures in economic history.

Compassionate Capitalism

Business and Community in Medieval England

Catherine Casson, University of Manchester, Mark Casson and Katie Phillips, University of Reading and John S. Lee, University of York

"Our knowledge of early capitalism is far from perfect. This book makes an important contribution to redress this situation, while also providing very valuable new information about medieval Cambridge and its territory."

GUIDO ALFANI, BOCCONI UNIVERSITY

"This study of the medieval property market in Cambridge, presented in the context of medieval capitalism and Christian charitable foundations, will be widely welcomed."

NICK MAYHEW, UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD

It may seem like a recent trend, but businesses have been practising compassionate capitalism for nearly a thousand years.

Based on the newly discovered historical documents on Cambridge's sophisticated urban property market during the Commercial Revolution in the 13th century, this book explores how successful entrepreneurs employed the wealth they had accumulated to the benefit of the community.

Cutting across disciplines, from economic and business history to entrepreneurship, philanthropy and medieval studies, this outstanding volume presents an invaluable contribution to our knowledge of the early phases of capitalism.

A companion book, The Cambridge Hundred Rolls Sources Volume, replacing the previous incomplete and inaccurate transcription by the Record Commission of 1818, is also available from Bristol University Press.

Good Finance

Why We Need a New Concept of Finance

Vedat Akgiray

"This is a very powerful critique of the global and more especially the developed world financial system. The book should become a standard work in academic finance and corporate governance."

JOHN PLENDER, FINANCIAL TIMES

This book presents a timely critique of extreme financialisation, of the economics profession's flawed modelling approach and the continuing blind faith in the efficient market hypothesis. Outlining the causes of financial crises and their socioeconomic effects, Good Finance puts the issues into perspective. It offers a clear platform upon which our current concept of finance can be revised for the good of society.

Remaking the Real Economy

Escaping Destruction by Organised Money

Gordon Pearson, Keele University

"Pearson's book is a tour de force, written from a position of wisdom, historical knowledge, management experience and robust academic research. This book could not be more timely."

MIHAELA KELEMEN, UNIVERSITY OF NOTTINGHAM

Debunking the myths around the current economic belief systems, this book reveals how mainstream perspectives work for the benefit of the organised money establishment, while causing all manner of destructions, inequalities and frauds, all conspiring against the common good. Focused on the realities of organisational systems, Pearson offers a practical alternative to economic dogma and presents a simple strategic analysis to identify necessary systems change for a truly sustainable future.

The Economics of Arrival

Ideas for a Grown-Up Economy

Katherine Trebeck, Wellbeing Economy Alliance and Jeremy Williams, writer and campaigner

"Brilliantly argued: time to learn how to live, not clamour for more and more... Very top of must-read list!"

GAR ALPEROVITZ, AUTHOR OF AMERICA BEYOND CAPITALISM

What do we want from economic growth? What sort of a society are we aiming for? In everyday economics, there is no such thing as enough, or too much, growth. Yet in the world's most developed countries, growth has already brought unrivalled prosperity: we have 'arrived'. More than that, through debt, inequality, climate change and fractured politics, the fruits of growth may rot before everyone has a chance to enjoy them. It's high time to ask where progress is taking us, and are we nearly there yet? In fact, Trebeck and Williams claim in this groundbreaking book, the challenge is now to make ourselves at home with this wealth, to ensure, in the interests of equality, that everyone is included. They explore the possibility of 'arrival', urging us to move from enlarging the economy to improving it, and the benefits this would bring for all.

The Lies We Were Told

Politics, Economics, Austerity and Brexit

Simon Wren-Lewis, University of Oxford

Simon Wren-Lewis, winner of the SPERI/New Statesman Prize for Political Economy, is one of Britain's most respected economists. Since 2012, his widely read Mainly Macro blog has been an influential resource for policy makers, academics and social commentators around the world. This book presents some of his most important work, telling the story of how the damaging political and economic events of recent years became inevitable.

Rethinking Britain

Policy Ideas for the Many

Edited by Sue Konzelmann, Birkbeck, University of London, Susan Himmelweit, The Open University, Jeremy Smith, Prime Economics and John Weeks

“Convincingly makes the case for a radical approach to policy making. Rethinking Britain is as urgent as it is readable.”

ROBERT SKIDELSKY, UNIVERSITY OF WARWICK

Rethinking Britain presents a range of ideas from some of the country’s most influential thinkers. From inflation to tax, and health to education, each contribution offers solutions which, if implemented, would lead to a fairer society.

The Hand Behind the Invisible Hand

Dogmatic and Pragmatic Views on Free Markets and the State of Economic Theory

Karl Mittermaier, University of the Witwatersrand

“A magisterial work of immense erudition that will fascinate anyone interested in debates about free markets and the role of equilibrium theory.”

JOCHEN RUNDE, UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE

Available Open Access under CC-BY-NC-ND licence.

Using Adam Smith’s notion of an ‘invisible hand’, this extraordinary contribution identifies dogmatic versus pragmatic views of free markets. Published posthumously, with new contributions by Rod O’Donnell, Daniel B. Klein and Christopher Torr.

Associate Editors: Donna Baines, University of British Columbia, Canada and Paul Brook, University of Leicester, UK and Rachel Cohen, City, University of London, UK and Martin Krzywdzinski, WZB Berlin Social Science Center, Germany.

Managing Editor: Abigail Marks, University of Stirling, UK

Consulting Editor: Paul Thompson, University of Stirling, UK.

Editorial Assistant and Social Media Editor: Safak Tartanoglu-Bennett, University of Greenwich, UK

"Amid the resurgence of interest in work and labour around the world, this new journal, with its impressive editorial team, is a promising addition to the field."

RUTH MILKMAN, CITY UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK GRADUATE CENTER, USA

Work in the Global Economy is an interdisciplinary peer-reviewed journal that promotes understanding of work, and connections to work, in all forms and dimensions. This can mean a focus on labour processes, labour markets, labour organising and labour reproduction.

The Editors welcome wide-ranging contributions that extend and deepen connections between all aspects of the division of labour: from the production networks that underpin the global economy, to the gendered and racial divides that shape how work is allocated and organised.

Print ISSN: 2515-6918

Online ISSN: 2515-6926

Frequency: April and October

“New technology and dynamic editorial talent, mark both the return of the Journal of Public Finance and Public Choice and a significant milestone in the history of transoceanic cooperation between scholars of public finance and public choice.”

J. R. CLARK, UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE AT CHATTANOOGA

The Journal of Public Finance and Public Choice (JPFPC) was founded in 1983 by Professor Domenico da Empoli in the spirit of the Italian discipline of Scienza delle finanze. According to this approach, economic analysis should include individual motivations in non-market settings, political institutions and collective decision making.

Relaunched in 2018 in partnership with Bristol University Press, JPFPC is unique in the international landscape of public economics journals because it is committed to explicitly advancing knowledge in both public finance and public choice, reflecting an inclusive approach.
