

GLOBAL POLITICAL ECONOMY

Global Political Economy is the much-anticipated journal for the discipline of global political economy. The journal offers a critical platform for research that interrogates prevailing institutions, norms and patterns of authority and explanatory categories, that authors will engage with and which drives debates around emancipatory discourses and praxis.

Editors call for contributions in specific areas within emerging, reinvigorated, or gaps in political economy research, such as in feminism and technology studies. They also welcome special issue suggestions.
